Paralle peritue charta.

In mercy spare us! if we do our best To make as much waste paper as the rest.

Ma. Editor,
If I were disposed to invoke the great est possible evil upon a literary opponent, it would be, that he would write such letters as have been addressed to me thro'

"the Herald," by my "good and polite correspondent." Were it true that he has triumphed as gloriously as he says he has done, yet his partisans have to confess that he has tarnished the lustre of his glory by the manner of his triumph.
Si armis vicit, citius vicitur est. But, in truth, whatever of legitimate triumph some may determine to perceive in the "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal," upon which this self-crowned victor plays his own hosannas, impartial men will discern in it the degradation of one, who, fearing to trust the public with the award of his cause, thus goes about to beg the question, and becomes at once the judge and herald of his own exploits, and the executioner of his adversary. But his "sword," he kindly says, "is too dull to pierce." I assure him that I do feel it to be, indeed, perfectly harmless—a mere delam inerte. If it had of itself any point, he has dipped it too deep in gall to hurt any one; unless perchance, as is believed, while

"Laughing wild amid severer woe," he has fallen on it himself. If I were not a party in this case, I should say that nothing could more effectually designate the wounded, it not the "fallen gladiator," than the writhings and agony of these paroxysms.

Johnson once said to a noble lord "I am now at liberty, sir, to be as rude as I please." But, as I will gladly waive this privilege, I shall say nothing further in reply to all his railing, than that I heartily forgive him, and that I will carefully avoid the risk of spoiling my temper and my cause by the use of similar weapons.

"My demonstration stands decorated," says this writer, "in all the majesty of truth; but yours, sir, consists of nothing else than a disordered collection of indigested ideas, which not even the Almighty spirit can combine."

Is this intended for logic, or poetry, or modesty?
By, because these indigested ideas could not be otherwise overthrown, he has "taken his usual method of perplexing the question. He charges me with "misrepresentation," and with making questions which I cannot designate. In the latter charge he labors to expose me to the public as wishing to shine in the meretricious ornaments of another's erudition. It will be recollected that when I cited to him the canon law, which says that "if the Pope was wicked enough to send people by troops to fight, yet no mortal can presume to find fault, because he is judge of all, and therefore, to be judged himself of none," he demanded, with high insinuations, the reference. If I had not been able to give it, I should have been charged abundantly with falsehood and impiety towards his church; but, as it is, he has been willing to forget all about it. With the same extingling views, he now demands the words of the Lateran Council, and hopes thus to render still more questionable the quotations which he has already made "doubtful."

I might lawfully refuse to comply with all this arrogance; but as his excess of joy might prove hurtful to him if he could realize the fond vision of my confusion, I must trouble the public with the quotation, which, it will be perceived, he never would have asked if he thought it had been forthcoming.

"Si vero Dominus temporalis. &c. If a temporal Lord, being required and admonished by the church, should neglect to purge his territory from heretical faith, he should, by the metropolitan and the other compunctual bishops, be warned in the hand of excommunication; and if he should fail to make satisfaction within a year, it should be signed to the Pope, that he might from that time denounce the subjects absolved from their fealty to him, and expose the territory to be seized on by Catholics," &c.

"I believe this to be a fair translation.
Let any one judge impartially, whether this canon does or does not recognize the temporal power of the Pope? The "satisfactory solution" is, that it is matter of discipline, not of faith. But is it not a matter of salvation, for which men will be judged at the last day? Is the church not a guide in practice as well as in faith?
If so, either there is no sin in rebellion and all the blood and desolation that follow it, or else infallibility has made here (M. B. himself being judge) a dangerous mistake. Either the doctrine of this council is true (which M. B. denies), or else this council, which he says is infallible, has erred.

If he will read again what I have said of Bellarmine's opinions, he will see that he has misunderstood me. The words are, "Bellarmine gives a list of general councils which are to be rejected, some for not being approved, some for heresy, although they were approved by the pope," &c. The latter clause, evidently, is my own inference and not an opinion ascribed to Bellarmine. He well knows that he has found fault with me before for ascribing too extravagant notions to this writer. In this 6th chapter he rejects councils because they were not approved by the pope. But my commentary was that: there had been heretical councils which were approved by the pope. And this I am prepared to maintain.

Upon such slight cavils does he expect to invalidate the testimony I have adduced from the various writers who make the good conduct of a council necessary to their infallibility. He does not possess the books, and therefore there are no complete copies of them in the United States. I will not say that I possess complete copies of them, but I will give him the references, that, if ever he meets with them he may convict me of misquoting.
In the mean time I pledge myself for the opinions ascribed to these writers whose words I am prepared to give in the original. St. Clara (in syst. fidei cap. 20) Ruffinensis (l. 2. c. 17) Petrus a soto de concil. lib. 2. c. 7.

Can any one tell what kind of authority will be expected by this writer? It is not enough that you cite Roman Catholics, he must also possess the book, and even that will not do if they are not of the right school. If they are against him, they are unworthy of belief. If you assert a fact which is confirmed by all history, he has nothing to do but tell you you are an ignorant. Pascal, who was one of the brightest ornaments of literature and of piety which any country ever produced, is immolated on the altar of his hypochri-sis, because he was not a Roman Catholic, although all his biographers say that he lived and died in the communion of that church, and although his praises are sounded by all the Gallican Church.— Villers is a "French Deist," because he did not succumb to the doctrine of infallibility, and is therefore unworthy of belief, although the facts he relates were attested by the highest literary tribunal in France and by the universal voice of history. Who is this writer that he feels thus privileged to impugn the veracity of every respectable historian, and to assume the fact of his own infallibility? What proud credentials does the boaster bring to prove his claims? We have a right to demand an answer to these questions, and until he has satisfied us, the public will require higher proofs than his own assertions.

It is recollected that, when this opponent was thrown hors de combat, I forbore to press him. My object being a fair investigation, I wished the observations of each to lie side by side, and to be duly compared. It seems, however, that he had only put into a Sec-port to fit, and that he has provided now so copious an arsenal, that your paper could not discharge the contents fast enough.
By letting off at once so many showers of scholastic subtlety, and mingling with them, as he has done, so much retrospective matter, he hopes to perplex his adversary, and to keep him so far behind in the chase, that he shall never be able to overtake him. If he desired a candid and liberal investigation, he would be willing to let us come alongside, and thus let the public compare boat with boat.
But I must be content to follow him in his retrograde and tortuous movements, promising (Deo volente), in due time to notice all his arguments on the subject now in question. My future enquiries will be made through "The Herald," whither he has transferred the theatre of war. In taking my leave of you, I beg you to accept my sincere thanks for your past politeness, and my apology to your readers for the annoyance they have had in the very uninteresting character which this controversy has assumed.

QUERO.

Boston, Oct. 11.

Arrived below this morning the brig Glory, Morris, 52 days from St. Salvador. At the time of the Glory's sailing, Aug. 19, the Brazil was in a state of perfect tranquillity—the revolution at Pernambuco so far at an end, that it was almost forgotten that an attempt had been made to revolutionize the country. Vessels were daily stopping at Bahia to try the market there, as they were obliged to put away from Pernambuco on hearing of the success of the Royalists at that place.
The proper authorities had erected and finished several triumphal arches for the victorious troops to pass under, who were hourly expected from Pernambuco, and grand fire-works were got in readiness preparatory to the celebration of the recapture of Pernambuco. The would-be patriot did not resist in any one instance.
The royal troops, after taking possession of the town, massacred great numbers of unoffending inhabitants. A short time before the Glory left Bahia, a report had reached that place that the 74 which had the troops on board, and which was bound to Bahia, had left Pernambuco in a leaky condition; that she had encountered a severe gale of wind, and had fallen to leeward as far as Paraira (about 150 miles) in a distressed condition, from injury sustained in the gale. It was afterwards concluded that she was lost, nothing having been heard of her since that time. Markets at the Brazils extremely low. From Pernambuco to Rio Janeiro the markets are completely glutted with all kinds of American produce. Superfine flour 12 to 15 per barrel, and three months' supply on hand. Best English fish 6 to 8 50 the quintal of 32 lbs.— good American do. would not command more than 2 50 to 3 60 do. Candles, soap, naval stores, and all kinds of American produce, proportionably low. Sugars and molasses scarce and high at Ba-hia. Cottons plenty. Hides, horns and fustic, scar and high. Coffee, none to be had at any price. Jerked beef 32 the arrobo of 32 lbs.

From the New-York Daily Advertiser.
From Bermuda papers, received by the sloop Edjman, capt. Anderson.

Hamilton, (Ber.) Sept. 13.

By the Haunting-bird, from Trinidad, we have received a full corroboration of the fall of the capital of Guayana. It is about five weeks since the Royalists were driven out of Augustura by the Insurgent or Republican forces, who are struggling to shake off the Spanish yoke. The Royalists precipitately made their escape in a ship of 18 guns, 8 gun-boats, and a boat 20 other vessels of different descriptions. The governor arrived safely from Grenada; but the ship which bore the sacred body of his reverence the Roman Catholic bishop, was cast away, on one of the islands, which so numerous a band of the refugees sought for safety in the British island of Trinidad, and were pursued by one of the Republican cruiz-ers into the Gulf of Paria, even under the guns of the fort at Port Spain; which being neutral ground put a stop to their further progress. The governor of that colony unarmed the gun boats, and sent them back to the Orinoco, under the British flag to rescue those who had been cast away, and to afford relief to stress who could not find their way out to the ocean, for the labyrinth of islands which render the navigation of that immense river so intricate to all who are unacquainted with it.

The marine force of the Republicans is said now to be very active and formidable, having amongst them several large American sailing ships and schrs. officered and manned almost entirely by the British and Americans. The whole province of Spanish Guayana, extending northward from the Dutch settlements of Surinam and Essequibo, is in the entire possession of the Republicans, whose cruizers are sufficiently numerous to protect the whole coast.

The east end of the island of Margareta is held by the Royalists, and all the remainder is occupied by the Republicans.
The former lately made an effort to obtain the sole possession of the island, but were repulsed, and the inhabitants refused to afford them assistance or protection.

We hear nothing of the Spanish armament which was lately sent by kind Ferdinand, for the relief of his South American possessions, and are disposed to believe that the Republicans have little to fear from it. They have no allies—both parties are left to fight their own battles; though the Republicans receive great assistance and reinforcement from enterprising individuals who are daily joining them, principally from the United States.
By an act of parliament passed on the 23d of May last, rum and molasses can be exported from this colony to the U.
States, in American or other foreign vessels, in addition to other articles previously allowed;—and fruit and vegetables of every description (in addition to articles previously admissible) may now be imported into Bermuda, in such foreign or American vessels, under the usual regulations. The Americans are of course aware that salted provisions (except a very moderate quantity for ships use) cyder, cheese, butter, or other manufactured articles, (except lumber, flour, &c.) would subject the vessel and cargo to seizure and condemnation.

Boats from some one of his majesty's men-of-war on this station are in the habit of boarding almost every vessel coming into port.

From the St. Stephens (M. T.) Haicyon, 28th August.

Mr. EASTIN—The following is an extract of a letter from gen. Gaines, on a subject which has excited much interest in the country, and as the publication will set the subject in its proper light, I beg you to insert it in the next Haicyon.
As also the address to the people of Murder Creek.

I am respectfully, sir, your ob't serv't.
SILAS DINSMOOR.

DEAR SIR—Having received several communications from persons settled upon public lands, within the country acquired by the treaty of Fort Jackson, containing general accusations against Indians—that they had killed cattle and hogs—stolen corn &c. and requesting the interposition of military force—I have referred them to the civil authority, because I have in no one case for a year past heard of any thing like an assembly of those Indians. The inclosure contains a copy of my reply to the people of Murder Creek and in this you will find the substance of my other replies, written and verbal. This was sent some time before I heard of the murder of Glass, in which I can hear of only one warrior having been engaged, and it is reported, that he had been seized and whipped without any authority. You will oblige me by handing to Mr. Eastin any extract from this paper with a view to correct some misapprehensions as to my interposing military authority, in a case where the civil should be resorted to.
Believe me to be, &c.

Signed, E. P. GAINES,
SILAS DINSMOOR, Esq.

Head-Quarters, Camp Montgomery,
M. T. July 11, 1817.

GENTLEMEN—I have received your communication of the 21st of last month stating that the Indians residing upon the Conaka had killed cattle and hogs, belonging to the inhabitants of Murder Creek, and had broke into houses, and taken from them some provisions, corn, &c. &c.

In reply, I have to observe that all Indians within the lately acquired territory, are amenable to our laws, and may be prosecuted for the offences of which you complain, in the same manner as if they were white inhabitants.

The lands cultivated by friendly Indians within the ceded territory have been reserved and guaranteed to them by treaty; and by a late act of congress, the agent of Indian affairs has been authorized to settle their respective claims to all such reservations. Until this is effected, there exists no where any sort of authority to drive off such Indians settled upon public land.

I am informed that governor Mitchell, the agent, will in a short time enter upon the examination and adjustment of these claims.

The disposition which you have manifested to abstain from "rash measures" towards those Indians, affords ground to hope that, viewing them as a part of the human family, possessing the right of residing among us, you will make due allowance for their ignorance and wants; which are calculated rather to awaken our commiseration, than to excite in us a spirit of hostility towards them.

That you may have peace and prosperity throughout your settlement, is the sincere wish of

Your obedient servant,
Signed, EDMOND P. GAINES, The inhabitants of Murder Creek, Alabama Territory.

SPAIN AND THE PATRIOTS.

The numerous advertisements of the marshal of this district concerning property taken as would appear from the subjects of the king of Spain, by vessels under the Patriot flag, and the summarious enquiries which the subject has excited, induced us to apply for information to a gentleman of the law, particularly conversant with the various causes to which the above advertisement apply;—from whom we have received the following communication: MESSRS. BALLARD & WRIGHT.

Gentlemen—In answer to your letter, requesting some information of the state of the various cases in our courts between the subjects of the king of Spain, and the inhabitants of the provinces claiming to be independent, I very readily give you the following facts:

The first case of any consequence was the polacre brig Divra Pastora.
This vessel, in a disabled condition, arrived in the harbor of New-Bel-ford, in the month of December last.
She was commanded by Daniel Utley claiming to be a citizen of Buenos Ayres. He stated that the Pastora was a prize to the Buenos Ayran privateer Mangoree, commanded by captain Barnes. That said Mangoree sailed from Buenos Ayres to Port-au-Prince, with a commission from the supreme director of the United Provinces of Rio de la Plata to cruise against the property of the European subjects of the king of Spain;—That she touched at Baltimore in the United States, where the said Utley claiming her, and sailed from thence on the cruise in which the Pastora was captured.—That after taking possession of the Pastora, he, (Utley) became sick, was nearly blind, and therefore unable to navigate the vessel—which during his sickness, was driven about pretty much at the pleasure of the winds and the waves, until finally it was necessary to seek a port in the United States for the preservation of the brig, and the lives of the prize crew.

Immediately on her arrival in the waters of the United States, the Spanish Consul filed a libel claiming the Pastora and her cargo as the property of the subjects of Ferdinand VII. denying the right of the United Provinces to issue commission of letters of marque, and insisting that the pretended capture was at all events tortuous and illegal, because the Mangoree was fitted out in the United States of America.

The case was decided by Judge Davis, in favor of the Consul, chiefly on the belief which his honor entertained, that there was an alleged American interest in the privateer, which vitiating all other proceedings. From this there was an appeal to the Circuit Court of the United States, and a judgment by consent there rendered, on which the case will be carried by appeal to the Supreme Court at Washington.

The cargo of the above vessel was sold by the Marshal, with consent of parties, and the proceeds invested by order of Court, in the funds of the United States, for the benefit of whom it may hereafter concern. Another vessel prize to the same privateer, arrived in distress in Rhode Island, and similar measures were pursued with regard to her.

The next case which has got into the newspapers, is concerning the ship, said to have appeared off Portland.

A few days since, five men arrived in this town, having in possession about three thousand dollars in gold, and one thousand in silver. They were arrested on a charge of piracy—one was admitted "states' evidence," one was discharged by the examining magistrate, and three are now confined in jail, waiting for trial in October, by the Circuit Court. The money was labelled by the Spanish Consul, and has been seized by the Marshal, under authority of Court.

This ship has given occasion to several advertisements, because legal process respecting her crew and cargo has assumed a variety of shapes.
The ship was undoubtedly a Spanish vessel, and her cargo the property of European Spaniards. She was unquestionably captured by a certain armed vessel called the Congress, sailing under the flag of Buenos Ayres and claiming to hold a commission for the Supreme Director of the United Provinces of Rio de la Plata. The prize was manned and ordered to Buenos Ayres—How she came off Portland is for judicious investigation.
Some body on board broke up her cargo—put it into different vessels—turned the residue of the crew over to an American ship, which was paid for receiving them and the prize was abandoned at sea.

Wherever any part of the original cargo has been discovered, the Spanish Consul has labelled it, and an advertisement has of course appeared in the papers, and the owners of the privateer have followed it into Court and claimed its delivery to them as being their prize of war.

The United States Dist. Attorney also has instituted process against two small schooners, the Abbey and the Betsy, for having illegally received part of the cargo of the ship, in contravention of the 27 and 23 sections of the collection law.—These various litigations are pending before the District Court of the United States.

There is yet another case of considerable consequence, which has figured in the long Advertisements of the Marshal, by order of the Court.

The schooner Rio de la Plata was fitted out at Buenos Ayres, and sailed on a cruise, some time in June last, armed and commissioned by the Supreme Director of the United provinces of South America. She fell in with and captured on the high seas, a certain Spanish Polacre brig, the Neustra Senora del Buono Sucesso, bound from Havana to Barcelona, on board of which she put a prize crew, leaving one or two of the original crew as prisoners on board, and ordered her for Buenos Ayres.

This vessel was wrecked at sea, and a Marblehead fishing boat fell in with her and took off the people and about six thousand dollars in value of goods, when the prize sunk within sight. The Marblehead men returned with the cargo and crew, and arrived safe in port. On landing the cargo, it was labelled for the salvors, to obtain a reasonable compensation; the prize master labelled for the owners of the privateer, and the Spanish Consul filed his claims for the original Spanish owners.

I believe these are the chief cases which have come into our courts.— They have occasioned much discussion as to the right of Spanish provinces to issue commissions of war, and as to the fact of American interest, or the effects of an interposition by Courts of the United States.

There can be no doubt that our citizens have no right to engage in the capture of Spanish property under the flag of the Patriots; and that such interference will be fatal to any case in which it should be proved. But it is also believed that no court of this country will eventually decide that the Spanish provinces are to be considered in a state of rebellion; or that their subjects, fairly engaged in maritime capture, are to be treated as pirates. The eventual decision of the supreme court at Washington when these cases are regularly presented to them, will be considered as a future rule, and the law when promulgated from that high authority will settle the judicial relations of the U. States with their provincial neighbors.

The existence of these litigations ought in no instance to be considered as involving any national right of the U. States. The parties are in all of the garrison were called out, a proclamation published. The corn is every where falling in the Netherlands.

Letters from Madrid received in Louisiana state that the Moors have begun to fight against the new system of Spain, in consequence of the taxes on the revenues of the church. The Archduchess Leopoldine, Princess of Portugal, embarked at Leghorn and sailed for the Brazils on board the Portuguese squadron Aug. 13, after waiting the arrival of the squadron two days.

Messrs. BALLARD & WRIGHT, Gentlemen—In answer to your letter, requesting some information of the state of the various cases in our courts between the subjects of the king of Spain, and the inhabitants of the provinces claiming to be independent, we very readily give you the following facts:

The first case of any consequence was the polacre brig, Divia Pastora. This vessel, in a disabled condition, arrived in the harbor of New- Bedford, in the month of December last. The existence of these litigations ought in no instance to be considered as involving any national right of the U. States. The parties are in all respects private citizens who exercise a privilege common to all the world. It is the final determination by the court, and the litigation by individuals, which will be of importance in fixing the character which the Spanish provinces bear in the U. States. — I remain yours, &c.

There is surplus timber and fire wood enough on the part I propose selling to pay, with judicious management, more than half the purchase money, at the price I ask. The situation is healthy, and the land fertile. Contiguity to market is also among its advantages; it being within less than a mile of Mr. Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price may be had for grain. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber, residing at Cedar Grove, ten miles below Alexandria, and one below Janney's mill.

The title is old, and indisputable, having been located and surveyed by Gen. Washington before the Revolution. What may be considered as adding much to its value is the passage of the western road through it. By a reference to Mr. Madison's map of Virginia, the situation of the land may be designated. ### Land for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale, about 2000 acres of land in Fairfax county, not more than from seven to nine miles from Alexandria. The property is well watered, has a sufficiency of wood, and (judging from the condition of small and well cultivated farms that adjoin it) it is highly susceptible of improvement. It is at present divided into tenements, of from one to two hundred acres each, provided with a dwelling house, out houses, a garden and orchard; and might, of course, be laid off into four or five very compact farms. The principal object of the subscriber, being the introduction of a good system of husbandry into its neighborhood, he will sell on very moderate terms, give a long credit on the whole amount of the purchase money, and require no other interest, than what the present rent of the land pays, being about 3 per cent. on its estimated value.
